BENGEL'S GNOMON.

In Preparation, to be completed in Five Volumes, 8vo.,
Price 28s. to Subscribers,

A TRANSLATION OF BENGEL'S GNOMON OF THE NEW TESTAMENT.

"Bengel's invaluable work—a work which manifests the profoundest and most intimate knowledge of Scripture, and which, if we examine it with care, will often be found to condense more matter into a line than can be extracted from pages of other writers."—Archdeacon Here.
2 vols. are expected to be ready towards the latter end of June, and the remainder before the end of the year.

Besides the original matter of Bengel, there is contained in the forthcoming work, in all passages where Bengel differs from the received text, a full but condensed statement by the Editor of the oldest authorities, MSS., versions, and fathers, both for and against the received reading.

Also, wherever Bengel gives distinctions of synonyms the Editor has given the opinions of Pittman, Trench, and himself on the true distinctions in such cases, especially where Bengel may be supposed not to have fully apprehended those distinctions.

THE

FEMALE MISSIONARY INTELLIGENCER,
AND RECORD OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING FEMALE EDUCATION IN CHINA, AFRICA, AND THE EAST.

Edited by Miss WHATELY (The Palace, Dublin).

One of the principal objects of the Magazine is, to supply useful missionary information to the various working parties and other associations at home who kindly aid the efforts of the society, and its pages will include extracts from the correspondence of the agents of the society at all the foreign stations, with the latest intelligence of interest, notices of work received or sold, and of the places where it is most in demand.

The diffusion of such information has already been of valuable service to many of the auxiliary associations, and a great means of encouragement to the society in the prosecution of its labours.

As, besides the advantages of making the society known, the surplus profits of the magazine, when all expenses are paid, will be devoted to forwarding its objects, those who are interested in a cause so important are earnestly solicited to lend their aid, by promoting the circulation of the magazine as widely as possible.

"A most useful publication, entitled the Female Missionary Intelligencer, edited by Miss Whately, is gradually becoming better known, and is extending an interest throughout Ireland, not only in missionary endeavours generally, but more especially on the subject of female education in the East. Clergymen accustomed to hold missionary meetings will find this little periodical most suggestive, and as the yearly subscription is only 1s., for twelve numbers of the publication, young persons in Sunday-schools might be encouraged to become subscribers."—Clerical Journal, July 22, 1856.

"A most interesting and useful periodical. . . . Containing most interesting details of the general operations of the Eastern Society. It is a pity that this cheap little publication is not more generally patronised, as it supplies trustworthy materials for missionary sermons, speeches, &c., and may be used beneficially in stirring up young people to make collections for the education and evangelizing of heathen females."—Clerical Journal (Second Notice), 8th October, 1856.

"As a trustworthy channel of missionary intelligence, especially in all that relates to the condition and prospects of the native women of heathen lands, its value is very great. It is remarkably well edited, and is characterised by a vein of devotional Christian feeling that is edifying and delightful. . . . This useful periodical has not the circulation it deserves. We commend it to every British mother, and trust that it will be made instrumental in exciting a general sympathy for the 250 millions of poor heathen women who are crying out to their sisters in this land, 'Come over and help us.'"—London Record, 11th February, 1857.

THE HARMONY OF NATURE AND REVELATION;
OR,
CHRISTIANITY AND ASTRONOMY.

Two Lectures Delivered before the Young Men's Christian Association, Cork, by

The Rev. JOSEPH R. COTTER, B.A.,

Rector of Donoughmore, Author of "Poor Paddy's Cabin," "The Irish Widow," &c.

"The subject of these Lectures is one of the grandest themes that can occupy the mind of men, and also one of the most elevating. Sublime as it is, the Rev. Mr. Cotter has treated it in no unworthy manner. He has risen to the height of his great argument, and has at the same time placed it before the minds of his hearers in a very intelligible manner, making it plain by happy illustrations, and conveying his ideas in simple but appropriate and expressive language, displaying throughout comprehensive views, correct taste, and a clear judgment. The parts are sold separately. Their wide circulation cannot but be beneficial, especially to the young, and to those Christians whose minds are in danger of being startled and bewildered by the discoveries of science."—Daily Express, May 13, 1857.

"We heartily recommend this volume to our readers. The Sermons are sound and practical, the language simple and forcible, while there is a winning freshness in the mode of treating familiar subjects which is calculated to awaken and sustain interest in the important truths they contain."—Irish Sunday School Magazine.

"Both in matter and manner these Sermons afford, in our opinion, an excellent model for popular instruction."—Evening Mail.

"It is refreshing to turn to a volume such as this is, to find the doctrines and characters of the Holy Scriptures set forth in their Supremacy, and urged with earnest eloquence and affectionate simplicity upon the reception and imitation of the reader."—Christian Examiner.
